CELEBRATES PHOTOGRAPHY

ACP 10

FESTIVAL GUIDE

2008

Ten years ago, an idea began during a spirited conversation between two friends on a Southern road trip. Corinne Adams and Susanne Katz were brainstorming about how to build a stronger photographic community in Atlanta. Why not create an event that could bring everyone from the across the photography spectrum together, to form a real photo community in Atlanta?

They brought their enthusiasm and new ideas to Mark Maio, then executive director of the Atlanta Photography Group, and the three began to hold meetings. Many of the movers and shakers in the Atlanta photographic community, including Lucinda Bunnen, Chip Simone, John McWilliams, Nancy Marshall, Louis Favorite, Michael Deardorff and Ted Maloof, came to the meetings. Everyone had fresh ideas, and often, very different ideas about what ACP should become, but all agreed that something was needed. What might they call this event? Names were considered: Refocus Atlanta, Focus Atlanta, Lens Atlanta, Lens on Atlanta, and Atlanta Celebrates Photography.

Susan Todd-Raque, a photo-historian and college educator, heard about the group's activities and enthusiastically started coming to the regular meetings. Todd-Raque had noted the dearth created by the lack of support for the arts in Atlanta, resulting in the exit of many talented graduates to New York.

Suzanne Lee joined the inner circle, bringing the idea to honor Harry Callahan as one of the entity's first initiatives. Unfortunately, Harry Callahan passed away and much of the interest in the group diminished. People drifted away and soon there were only four people: Corinne Adams, Susanne Katz, Gerald Straw and Susan Todd-Raque. They decided that ACP was too good an idea to let die.

A 501(c)3 was formed with Susan Todd-Raque as President, Susanne Katz as Vice President, Pam Holland as Treasurer, and Corinne Adams as Secretary. Their monies, along with the generous help of Lucinda Bunnen, funded its founding. The first October event, with the help of Bob Khoury of Showcase and Jan Fields of the Showcase School, was a lecture and dinner featuring Joe Sterling and Linda Connor. Over 100 people came out for that event and all involved were sold on the fact that ACP was a great idea.

Thanks to Polly Barr of Strictly Black and White Labs, ACP had its first office. Judy Pishnery made ACP look good by producing the first printed festival guide. And Phyllis Rodbell helped spread the word about ACP.

With this growth, ACP began the tradition of partnering with other organizations to increase the scope and reach of photography events in Atlanta. (The 1999 event guide listed over 30 events related to photography taking place in October, the 2000 Event Guide included over 50 events and the 2001 Event Guide listed over 80 events. Today there are over 150 events throughout Atlanta and beyond).

After several years of creating and producing programs, ACP's Board of Directors was suffering from burnout. This all-volunteer organization had gone as far as it could go on blood, sweat, and tears, and in late 2003, despite being financially solvent, the ACP Board was exhausted and unable to continue without the ability to fund a staff person. With saddened hearts, they consulted with an attorney to start the procedure for dissolution.

Cathy Fox of the AJC heard the rumor, and wrote an article that stirred the hearts and minds of its readers. What a shame it would be for Atlanta to lose this organization because of lack of support! The community support (and donations) came pouring in and ACP decided to hire a full time Executive Director. Anne Dennington, who was then the director of Lowe Gallery, offered to become ACP's first full-time Executive Director in 2004. ACP hired Debra Ott as a consultant to help ease this transition.

With Anne's keen oversight, ACP developed a strong board of directors and started making its mark in the national photography community. The donor base grew and so did the programs. Throughout these changes, ACP maintained its commitment to excellence.

In 2007, ACP hired Michael David Murphy as Program Manager and Amy Miller as the new Executive Director, and the Board of Directors grew to 19 distinguished members. In early 2008, ACP developed "ACP Now!", an acclaimed, dynamic resource for photographers, venues and enthusiasts updated weekly at www.acpinfo.org.

As we celebrate our 10th Anniversary [ACP 10], we want to be sure to take this opportunity to thank ALL OF YOU who have been involved with ACP in every way (there are so many of you, too many to mention here!). ACP 10 is only possible thanks to the dedicated support of organizations and individuals throughout Atlanta. We especially thank our volunteers, who have enthusiastically embraced our mission to create an international city for photography in Atlanta. We want to warmly thank our sponsors and donors, who make our programs possible. We are looking forward to the next ten years!

ACP 3rd Annual Photography Auction Gala Fundraiser

Fri., Sep. 26, 2008 6:30 - 10 pm

Continuing with our overwhelmingly successful tradition, ACP proudly presents our 3rd annual photography auction. Denise Bethel, Director of the Photographs Department of Sotheby's New York, will return as auctioneer. The evening will begin with a reception and silent auction, followed by a seated dinner and live auction. The quality of photography available at this auction is unprecedented, including Alec Soth, Roger Ballen and Sylvia Plachy. This year, many internationally known photographers have donated work to benefit ACP, and Myott Studios has donated the framing. The event will be held at King Plow Arts Center and will be catered by Bold American Catering.

Advance purchase of tickets required. Seating is limited.

ACP 10 Opening Reception

Fri., Oct. 3, 2008 7 - 9 pm

This year, ACP will officially launch our 10th festival with an opening reception at the Atlanta Center of Contemporary Art (The Contemporary). This reception will also mark the opening of The Contemporary's exhibit of the work of Minneapolis-based Paul Shambroom. This exhibition is a mid-career survey that examines his most important bodies of photographic work. These include investigative and lush color images that require the artist to do extensive research to identify locations and contacts, negotiate access, and carefully consider his strategies of format, composition, and scale. The Meetings series of photographs explores the democratic process as witnessed in city council meetings taken in most of the United States of America. Other photographs document the overwhelming architectural and structural conditions at various nuclear sites as well as the men and women currently working at homeland security training sites.

This exhibition is in collaboration with the Weisman Art Museum, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN.

This event is free and open to the public.

ACP Lecture Series

Artist Lecture: Christopher Bucklow

Thu., Sep. 11, 2008 7 - 8:30 pm

Christopher Bucklow is widely known for the photographic silhouettes he makes using a pinhole camera. In Europe, he is also known for the ongoing series of paintings that stem from those photographs. He is currently working in both media and is exhibiting new photographs at Jackson Fine Art in Atlanta and recent paintings at Riflemaker gallery in London.

In 2004, Blindspot, New York, published a monograph on his photographs entitled "Guest", and that same year, The British Museum published a monograph on his paintings ("Christopher Bucklow: If This Be Not I"). Bucklow also exhibits with Artereal gallery in Australia and Mssohkan gallery in Japan. He has recently written a book on the iconography of Philip Guston's late paintings. His work is included in the collections of many museums across the U.S.

Christopher Bucklow's lecture coincides with an exhibition of his work at Jackson Fine Art. Presented with the High Museum of Art and Jackson Fine Art.

This event is free and open to the public.

ACP Lecture Series

Artist Lecture: Danny Lyon

Thu., Oct. 2, 2008 7 - 8:30 pm

Danny Lyon published his first photographs in the 1960's while working for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). Lyon's photographs appeared in The Movement, a documentary book about the Southern Civil Rights Movement. He later began creating his own books, beginning in 1967 with his study of the lives of outlaw motorcyclists, "Bikeriders". Other works include "Conversations with the Dead" (1971), a look at prison life in Texas and "I Like to Eat Right on the Dirt". Lyon also creates film documentaries and received the Guggenheim Foundation fellowship for photography and filmmaking. His work is in many important public institutions and collections including, The George Eastman House, The Museum of Modern Art, the J. Paul Getty Museum, and The High Museum of Art, among others.

Lyon's photography makes up an important part of the "Road to Freedom" exhibition at the High Museum (through October 5).

Danny Lyon's lecture coincides with the exhibition "Road to Freedom" at the High Museum of Art. Presented with the High Museum of Art and Turner Inc.

This event is free and open to the public.

ACP Lecture Series

Artist Lecture: Danny Clinch

Thu., Oct. 16, 2008 7 - 8:30 pm

Music is, by its nature, emotive, lush, and visceral. Capturing music (and its makers) photographically requires a unique love for the subject and a passion for the craft.

While trends in music photography can lean towards the over-produced and under-valued, Danny Clinch's work is about the purity of the music and those who create it. Moments of passion stripped down to the basics, like a well-worn Stratocaster.

Danny's photographs look less like a portfolio of press shots and more like an enormous family photo album. That is, if your family includes Bob Dylan, Bruce Springsteen, and Johnny Cash. Remarkably, Clinch's subjects repeatedly reveal their true selves, willingly and without reservation.

Danny's work has appeared in publications such as Vanity Fair, Spin, Rolling Stone, GQ, Esquire, The New Yorker, and The New York Times Magazine, and his photographs have appeared on hundreds of album covers.

This event is free and open to the public.

ACP Collector's Series

Collecting 101 with Susan Todd-Raque

Tue., Oct. 14, 2008 7 - 8 pm

Thinking of making your first photography purchase? Maybe you already have purchased a few pieces, but would feel better if you knew more about the history of the medium? Are you a seasoned collector but need a refresher?

Using real-life examples, Susan Todd-Raque will guide you through a brief history of the medium, focusing on the major ideas and movements. She will demystify printing nomenclature and explain editioning, the importance of forming relationships with photography dealers, and how to ask the right questions when looking at photography. To conclude the seminar, Atlanta's premier fine art framer, Myott of Myott Studios, will give a short presentation on how and when to protect your artwork from damage; including mounting, matting, framing and UV protection.

Susan Todd-Raque provides art advisory services for private collectors, corporations and artists. she brings a wealth of knowledge from over 20 years as an independent consultant, curator, educator, appraiser and writer on the photographic arts.

Myott is a self-taught painter, sculptor, and framer. For over 30 years, Myott Studios has focused on hand crafted frame designs as well as restoration and conservation of fine art.

This event is free and open to the public.

ACP Spotlight on Local Talent

Artist Lecture: Suellen Parker

Thu., Oct. 9, 2008 7 - 8:30 pm

Reception at 6:30

Suellen Parker is an artist who uses sculpture, photography and digital manipulation to explore contemporary themes. The scenes depicted feature characters modeled out of plasteline clay. The sculptures are then photographed and reworked in the computer, along with other photographs to create the final photomontage. These characters are fighting against the contradictions that exist between their ideal self and their physical reality.

Suellen was selected as one of 50 promising emerging photographers featured in the important international traveling exhibition, reGeneration: 50 Photographers of Tomorrow curated by William Ewing of Musée de l'Elysée. Her work has been published in The New York Times Magazine, Discover Magazine, the American Photography juried annual and the catalogue of reGeneration published by Aperture. Suellen's work is included in the permanent collections of Sir Elton John, Musée de l'Elysée, and Tel Aviv Museum in Israel. She is represented by Stefan Stux Gallery, New York and Jackson Fine Art, Atlanta. Suellen is a professor at the Savannah College of Art and Design in Atlanta.

ACP Film Series: Film and Spirit

Part 1: Blow-Up: Photography, Reality, and Time

Work by Michelangelo Antonioni, and Michael Snow

Sat., Sep. 27, 2008 7 - 9 pm

Two classic films in which the still photograph plays a crucial role.

In Michelangelo Antonioni's "Blow-Up", a cocky fashion photographer in 1960s Swinging London has his world turned upside down by his realization that he may have inadvertently photographed a murder. The photos tell one story -- but what really happened? In Michael Snow's "Wavelength", four mysterious events happen inside a New York loft as the camera slowly, relentlessly zooms toward an image on the opposite wall. Paradoxically, as the frame narrows in scope and nears its destination, the film takes on an almost spiritual intensity. One of the most influential and written-about works of the 1960s.

This event is free and open to the public.

Part 2: Songs of Devotion: Films by Nathaniel Dorsky

Work by Nathaniel Dorsky

Wed., Oct. 15, 2008 8 - 10 pm

Since the early 1960s, Nathaniel Dorsky has been one of the great practitioners of meditative cinema. Projected at the non-standard rate of eighteen frames per second (which he refers to as "sacred speed"), Dorsky's films are an explicit invitation to increase our awareness of moment-to-moment existence and experience a sense of reverence for the visual world.

Alaya is an exquisitely photographed film on the beauty of sand, in which grains of sand and the grain of different film stocks merge into a unique visual texture. Triste and Variations continue Dorsky's intense engagement with the images of everyday life, skillfully edited to highlight their interrelatedness, and by extension our own.

This event is free and open to the public.

ACP Film Series: Film and Spirit

Part 3: Forest of Bliss

Work by Robert Gardner, and Jonathan Schwartz

Wed., Oct. 22, 2008 8 - 10 pm

Varanasi, India: City of Light, home of Lord Shiva, the Forest of Bliss. Situated on the sacred Ganges River, Varanasi is the site of a daily drama of ritual and devotion: Hindus from all over the country make pilgrimages to worship in the city's temples; devotees bathe in the sacred waters; and the sick and aged make their last journey here so they may die in this holiest of places. Yet all around, life goes on as normal. In Forest of Bliss, the legendary filmmaker Robert Gardner captures the human drama and daily life of a place like no other on earth. Both personal and universal, the film is as stunning for its sound design as well as its extraordinary imagery. Accompanied by Jonathan Schwartz's Den of Tigers, a short film which invites us to observe the sights and sounds of West Bengal through the eyes of a visitor.

This event is free and open to the public.

ACP Public Art

Within Our Gates

Work by Bradley McCallum, and Jacqueline Tarry

Oct. 1 - 31, 2008

The artist team of Bradley McCallum & Jacqueline Tarry have developed an important career around site-specific work using photographic media to highlight political and racial issues in America. They have been commissioned to create an original, temporary installation in Atlanta for ACP's tenth festival, October 2008.

The video-based art project will be notable for its radical transformation of a dormant space in the historic Martin Luther King district of Atlanta. The 1906 water tower was originally part of the South East Atlantic Cotton Compress Warehouses (now Studioplex lofts), and has been granted entry to the National Register of Historic Places.

Drawing upon the rich film, television and radio broadcast archives of the civil rights collection of WSB, housed at the University of Georgia, McCallum and Tarry hope to create a public art project that will resonate beyond the site, leading citizens from all over to interact with, and learn from this work of art and to experience, in an unprecedented way, an impassioned social protest movement as it unfolded in the Old Fourth Ward, in Atlanta, the US, and throughout the world.

Hours of operation: Oct 4 - 25th

Thursday 11am - 5pm

Friday 11am - 5pm

Saturday 11am - 7pm

Sunday 11am - 3pm

Please check acpinfo.org for any change in hours of operation

Sunday, October 5th at 2 p.m

In conjunction with "Within our Gates: Video Installation by Bradley McCallum and Jaqueline Tarry", Atlanta Celebrates Photography will host a discussion with Tom Finkelpearl, Executive Director the Queens Museum (NY) and Dr. Andrea Barnwell Brownlee, Director of the Spelman College Museum about the site-specific project created at the Irwin Street Water tower in the King Historic District of the Old Fourth Ward. Mr. Finkelpearl, artist, curator and public art expert, will discuss the work in light of his forthcoming book on public art and social advocacy. Dr. Barnwell Browlee, who exhibited work by the artist team at Spelman last year, will place the work in context of other projects. Lisa Kurzner, project curator, will introduce and guide the discussion. The artists will be present.

Artist Lecture by Gregory Heisler: "Arnold Newman - The Man and His Impact"

Wed., Oct. 1, 2008 7 - 8:30 pm

Award-winning photographer Gregory Heisler, will discuss Arnold Newman, as an artist and the sustained impact that Newman and his work have had on the history of photography. Known for his technical mastery, Heisler's enthusiasm and hands on approach is legendary. In addition to 70 cover portraits for TIME Magazine, Heisler has had work on the covers of Life, Sports Illustrated, ESPN and the New York Times Magazine. As a sought-after speaker and educator, Heisler has taught at ICP, The New School, Parson School of Design, The Smithsonian Institution, and National Geographic.

His presentation of Newman's work (in addition to Heisler's own work) will be followed by an open, candid discussion with questions from the audience.

An exhibition of Arnold Newman's environmental portraiture and its effect on Gregory Heisler may be seen at Lumière. This event is free and open to the public.

Artist Lecture: Danielle Roney

Work by Danielle Roney

Thu., Oct. 23, 2008 7 - 8:30 pm

Danielle Roney is one of the winners of the 2007 Working Artist Prize, sponsored by MOCA GA and the Charles Loidans Foundation. Come hear Danielle discuss her work as you walk through her installation that resulted from winning this prize.

Her solo exhibition, Genesis Trial: Johannesburg incorporates large-scale works and media installations that balance the dichotomy of virtual and physical realities. Universal issues of migration, socioeconomic barriers and locational identity structures are examined through the urban African environment of Johannesburg, South Africa based on her experiences there in 2007.

Danielle has been supported through a grant by Sony Electronics, and featured in the top 50 emerging international artists 2006 by Contemporary magazine, London. She has exhibited at numerous museums and universities including Beijing Off-Biennale 2005, The Museum of Contemporary Art of Georgia, the Atlanta Contemporary Art Center, and the South by Southeast Biennale in Boca Raton, Florida. Her current projects include public media programming for newGenre Landscapes and solo exhibitions with the Museum of Contemporary Art of Georgia and Kiang Gallery in Atlanta.

This event is free and open to the public.

Presented with MOCA GA.

Le Flash

ACP Collaboration: Le Flash

Fri., Oct. 24, 2008 7 - 12 am

Once a year, Paris lights up the city with art for Nuit Blanche. Toronto does the same with all night art revelry. In Santa Monica, Glo transforms the pier, the beach and Palisades Park for art encounters from dusk to dawn. This year, we bring the art of Le Flash to Castleberry on Friday, October 24, from 7pm to midnight.

Fantastical art and creative events will fill our night out in the district. Street corners, galleries, shops, roof tops, vacant lots and empty buildings will be sites for light, sound and unexpected installations, performance art, poetry readings, concerts, music, video projections, a marching band, an iron pour and art happenings of all sorts.

Organized by Cathy Byrd and Stuart Keeler. Presented with Georgia State University Welch School of Art & Design, Savannah College of Art & Design, French Cultural Services, French Consulate in Atlanta, French American Fund For Contemporary Art, Castleberry Hill Neighborhood Association, Friends of Cleopas Park, Fulton County Arts Council, Office of Cultural Affairs.

This event is free and open to the public.

Please visit www.acpinfo.org/leflash for a map of Castleberry Hill that indicates installation sites.

Discussion: Great Women in Photography

Wed., Nov. 5, 2008 7 - 8:30 pm

Ms. Rosenblum, a noted historian, lecturer, and author, whose books include "World History of Photography", and "A History of Women in Photography". The latter is a comprehensive review of the subject from the mid 1840's through the present. Her lecture will update photographic history while exploring the emergence of female photographers in Asia and the Middle East, as part of continuing evolution of women in the arts.

Ms. Partridge is a director/producer and cinematographer of documentary films, and has garnered many awards, including an Academy Award nomination for the film about her grandmother, "Portrait of Imogen". Other works include films on Dorothea Lange and her father, Rondal Partridge. Her presentation will provide a close up of the people in her photographic "family" that created some of the 20th Century's most iconic images.

The discussion complements an exhibition opening on Friday, November 7th, at Lumière featuring the work of notable female photographers of the 20th Century.

This event is free and open to the public.

Presented in collaboration with Lumière.

Oct. 10 - Nov. 15, 2008

Peter Bahouth utilizes stereoscopic photography as a medium to address aesthetic issues raised by the biology of vision and the problem of portraying space.

Lecture Stereoscopic Show and Tell Sat., Oct. 18, 2008 3 - 5 pm
Photographer Peter Bahouth will lead an interactive, hands-on tour through some of the high points in the history of 3-D photography, including 1950's vintage amateur stereo photos, the use of 3-d photos by traveling salesmen, and the role of viewmasters in childhood photography collections. Participants will be able to view various examples of stereo photography as well as cameras and viewers, and hear about Bahouth's unique approach to the medium.

The Jena Project

Work by Michael David Murphy

Sep. 12 - 27, 2008

The Jena Project is a remixed, visual analysis of online speech, as seen through a year's worth of comment threads and discussions of photographs and video made by Michael David Murphy during last summer's trials, protests, and marches for the Jena Six in Jena, Louisiana. On the one-year anniversary of the marches, The Jena Project offers a mixed-media look behind the curtain at America's ongoing "conversation on race", while mapping both language and newsmaking from an up-close (and often binary) street-level perspective.

SlowExposures 2008

Sep. 19 - 28, 2008

Now in its sixth year, SlowExposures presents images from over 40 photographers that underscore the contradictions and complexity of the rural South. 2008 jurors are Jamie Allen of the Eastman House, Rochester, NY, and Mike Smith, East Tennessee State University. The Jurors Talk, Opening Reception, The SlowExposures Ball and Photography Salon are housed in historic Pike County buildings.

Lecture Collector's Workshop
Fri., Sep. 19, 2008 10 am - 5 pm
Lead by prominent collector John Bennette of New York City, workshop participants will share a full day's schedule of lectures, visits to gallery venues, and the exhibition. Contact nancy@slowexposures.org to register.

Lecture The Business and Politics of Fine Art Photography
Sun., Sep. 21, 2008 12 am - 3 pm
SlowExposures' first Salon will be a relaxed, spontaneous conversation focusing on fine art photography as a career. Join special guests John Bennette, Debbie Fleming Caffery, Perry Dilbeck, and Mike Smith at the Whiskey Bonding Barn to contribute ideas, ask questions, and share a buffet lunch. Limited to 20 participants.

Donate to ACP

As the arts in have begun to thrive, the community's interest in ACP has strengthened. Residents want international recognition for the city, and there is a growing awareness of ACP's potential, as an independent non-profit organization supporting all aspects of photography, to play a vital role in this development.

Please take this opportunity to support the arts in Atlanta in a unique way - by supporting ACP!

A contribution of any kind supports ACP's community programs during the festival and throughout the year.

- Cash Contributions
- Gifts of Stock
- Volunteering time
- Joining our audience...and bringing a friend!

Donations of any amount over $100 include benefits such as invitations to receptions with visiting artists, tickets to the ACP auction, discounts on framing, etc. To see a full breakdown of benefits for each level of giving, please visit our website ww.acpinfo.org or call the ACP office at 404.634.8664. We could not have accomplished what we have without the generous support of culturally minded people like you.

Donations may be made online at www.acpinfo.org or sent via mail to the ACP office.

ACP is a non-profit 501(c)(3), and your donation is tax deductible as allowed by law.

SPECIAL 10th Anniversary Donor Benefits:

With each donation of $1000 or more, you will receive (until the edition of 50 runs out) a special, limited-edition photograph by Corinne Adams, a founding member of ACP.

About ACP

Atlanta Celebrates Photography (ACP) supports Atlanta's emergence as an international center for photography. Through an annual, October festival and year-round programs, ACP seeks to nurture and support photographers, educate and engage collectors, promote diverse photography venues, and enrich Atlanta's cultural scene.

About ACP 10

October 2008, ACP celebrates its tenth annual festival- ACP 10! During this month, Atlanta will be filled with more than 100 photographic exhibitions, complemented by lectures, films, public art projects, and other special programs, including our annual Photography Auction. The festival attracts professional and amateur photographers of all ages, art collectors, gallery owners, curators and general photography enthusiasts. The festival is also ACP's primary way of supporting efforts of other local organizations through collaborations and sponsorships.

ACP is the only organization that supports multiple levels of Atlanta's photography community, from amateur hobbyist to full-time artist, and promotes them, both locally and nationally. ACP also collaborates with museums as well as academic and commercial art institutions to promote exhibitions and programs of high quality and to build an increasingly sophisticated understanding of where photography stands in relation to contemporary art and culture. The overarching goal of our efforts is to play an important role in Atlanta's emergence as a world-class cultural city.

Photography has been called the great democratic medium – meaning that it is accessible to everyone, is experienced by everyone, and that all of our lives have been touched by photography. This festival strikes a chord with more than 100,000 people in and around Atlanta. We want to thank all of you for supporting us for the last 10 years. We look forward to all that can be accomplished in the next 10.
